COVID-19 EMERGENCY REGULATIONS – ALERT LEVEL 2 (amended with effect from Friday 5 June 2020)

On Saturday, 21st March 2020, the Prime Minister announced the alert level system to be used during the COVID-19 response. As was announced on 11 May 2020, from Thursday 14 May 2020, COVID-19 Alert Level 2 will prevail. Under the Alert Level 3 Directive a requirement was placed on clubs or Trainers, that together with their respective staff or racing officials they must develop a COVID-19 Control Plan in place to protect all individuals at the workplace or sites where training and racing is conducted. Employers should already have prepared and implemented their site plans and processes with worker engagement (including worker H&S representation) and participation to ensure that agreed measures are well communicated and embedded in practice

A full overview of New Zealand's COVID-19 Alert Levels is provided via this link. Please familiarise yourself with this, and in particular the restrictions relating to Travel and Workplaces.

Whilst the move to Level 2 and subsequent encouraging reports of no new COVID-19 cases are extremely positive for the nation and provides more freedom for the community and businesses, it is not guaranteed that we may not face a reversion to Level 3 either nationally or in certain regions. As was the case under Level 3, NZTR will work with the industry to keep all participants safe and eliminate, or mitigate to the greatest possible extent, the risk of transmission of COVID-19.

In moving to Level 2, and in subsequent updates, the government has assessed the health risks to the community as sufficiently low enough to enable fewer or less stringent restrictions on businesses, and recreational or social engagement. The racing industry may therefore choose to also appropriately balance decreases risks of virus transmission against measures stipulated under the Directive that applies under Alert Level 3.

The purpose of this Directive, and requirements on employers and workers (PCBUs):

The core principle behind this Directive is to protect the health and safety of a limited number of public raceday attendees and all workers required to perform duties during the COVID-19 crisis, including related health and safety impacts on operations related to operating under a COVID-19 environment, as well as protecting the wider New Zealand population from transmission and spread of the virus. Another key principle is to maintain the WorkSafe three pillars of good work throughout all operations: leadership, risk management, and worker engagement.

This Directive contains minimum measures that are necessary under COVID Alert Level 2 to mitigate or eliminate the risk of passing on the COVID-19 virus at work. These include:

- supporting people with flu-like symptoms to self-isolate;
- ensuring appropriate physical distancing as mandated by government;
- regular disinfecting of surfaces;
- maintaining good hygiene, particularly hand hygiene and good cough/sneeze etiquette; and
- keeping records to facilitate contact tracing.

Under the Alert Level 3 Directive a requirement was placed on clubs or Trainers, that together with their respective staff or racing officials they must develop a COVID-19 Control Plan in place to protect all individuals at the workplace or sites where training and racing is conducted. Employers should already have prepared and implemented their site plans and processes with worker engagement (including worker H&S representation) and participation to ensure that agreed measures are well communicated and embedded in practice Stipulated measures in NZTR's COVID-19 Directives (must form part of the workplace's health and safety plan, (including associated persons or trades) with further protocols and processes down to site level that show how the principles and minimum requirements set out in this standard are achieved.

PCBUs and officers are expected to undertake and champion the principles of this standard by constantly focussing on eliminating or reducing the risk of COVID-19 transmission to an acceptable level (as required by the Ministry of Health (MOH)), engaging meaningfully with their workforce, and making worker health a key priority.

The standard also includes prevention, detection, and rapid response measures designed to achieve the principles above whilst maintaining business continuity across Thoroughbred training and racing activities.

Achievement of this standard is expected for all PCBUs engaged in training and racing of Thoroughbreds whilst working under COVID-19 Alert Level 2 and reflects what a responsible business and activity would undertake to ensure the health and safety of its workers and the New Zealand public. PCBUs are responsible for implementing controls to achieve this standard and maintaining records to provide evidence that the requirements have been met.

As was the case under Alert Level 3, there is no requirement to register your plan, but you must have one in place and share it with your staff. Your plan should also be shared with other organisations that you are physically interacting with, or that you are required to inform. If a COVID-19 Control Plan is not in place, staff must not go to work and the training premises should remain closed. Unless expressly advised by NZTR, under Alert Level 2, the minimum measures required of this Directive must continue to be adhered to.

Trainers, Clubs, staff, RIU and other racing officials, and Jockeys are expected to work positively and cooperatively to ensure:

- the effective implementation of these minimum COVID-19 protocols, and
- that the health and safety of workers and other people aren't put at risk from changes that are made to work arrangements because of this pandemic.

Considerations taken in the drafting of this Directive

- Government stipulated protocols for businesses and public activities under Covid-19 Alert Level 2, as updated with effect from 29 May 2019.
- Guidance provided by Worksafe that pertained to Alert Level 3 and requirements of the Health and Safety at Work Act 2015.
- The equivalent regulations prevailing in New South Wales and Victoria where racing has continued to operate whilst government lock-downs apply.
- Consultation with the New Zealand Jockeys' Association, the New Zealand Trainers' Association, NZ Thoroughbred Owners Federation, Racing Clubs, and the NZ Racecourse Managers Association.

Notes:

- This directive has the effect of NZTR Rules of Racing and is binding on PCBU's (as defined by the Health & Safety at Work Act, including racing clubs, racing officials (including RIU) and Trainers (and employees and contractors) and Jockeys.
- This directive is subject to any government regulations or requirements as relevant to COVID-19 Alert Level 2.
